1. Purpose

The Client is considering engaging the Contractor for a claims review, or has already done so, and makes information available to the Contractor for that reason. This agreement governs how the Contractor handles that information (the "Purpose").

2. Confidential information

Confidential information means all non-public information that the Client makes available to the Contractor in connection with the Purpose, whether orally, in writing or electronically. This includes in particular unpublished copy, draft packaging and campaigns, product and supplier data, evidence, studies, figures and business plans. The Contractor's work results are also confidential to the extent that they contain such information.

Information is not confidential if it

- is or becomes public through no fault of the Contractor,
- was demonstrably known to the Contractor beforehand,
- is lawfully received from a third party without a duty of confidentiality, or
- was developed independently by the Contractor.

3. Contractor's obligations

The Contractor shall

- use confidential information only for the Purpose,
- not pass it on or make it accessible to third parties,
- protect it with appropriate technical and organisational measures, and with at least the care he applies to his own confidential information, and
- inform the Client without delay on becoming aware of any unauthorised disclosure.

If the Contractor involves assistants with the Client's prior written consent, he shall bind them to equivalent confidentiality and is liable for their conduct.

4. AI tools and online services

The Contractor enters confidential information into AI tools, such as language models, translation or writing services, only with the Client's prior consent. Consent may be given by email and withdrawn at any time. The Contractor may use common services for storing and transmitting data, such as email and cloud storage, provided access to them is protected.

5. Legal disclosure obligations

If the Contractor is required by law or by an order of an authority or court to disclose confidential information, he shall inform the Client in advance where permitted and disclose only what is necessary.

6. Return and deletion

At the Client's request, and at the latest 30 days after the engagement ends or after it is clear that no engagement will follow, the Contractor returns or deletes confidential information. At the Client's request he keeps material for a later re-check. This does not apply to records he must keep under statutory retention duties, or to copies in automatic backups that cannot be deleted with reasonable effort. This agreement continues to apply to them.

7. References

The Contractor names the Client, the engagement or any results from it as a reference or in examples only with the Client's prior written consent.

8. No further rights or obligations

This agreement does not transfer any rights in the confidential information. It does not oblige either party to place or accept an engagement.

9. Term

This agreement applies from signature. The confidentiality obligations apply during the engagement and for three years after it ends, or for three years after the last exchange of information if no engagement follows. For trade secrets they apply for as long as these remain secret.

10. Final provisions

Amendments and additions to this agreement must be made in writing. If any provision is invalid, the remaining provisions stay in force. This agreement is governed by Swiss law. Place of jurisdiction is Lucerne, Switzerland.
